

Inspiring Leaders? Meet some of our Guest Speakers.

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy attracts world-famous guest speakers. In the recent past, these have included former British Prime Minister Tony Blair; Taiwanese President Ma Ying Jeou, Indian Minister for Commerce and Industry, Kamal Nath and Rwandan President Paul Kagame to name a few.

These leaders come not just because of the growing reputation of the School, but also because of its mission: To significantly raise the standards of governance and thus improve lives of millions across Asia.

Alongside our rigorous academic programmes, exposure to real-world politicians and policy-makers is a vital part of the education at the School. This equips our students with the tools to become leaders and change agents in their organisations and societies.
